Foreword and Foresight

I first met Judge Greg Mathis on March 22, 2007, in Atlanta, Georgia, thanks to a college alumni and good friend of mine, Dr. Mark Stevens. Upon meeting the Judge, I shared with him a blueprint of a children's book I had created, which was about him. I can't recall everything we discussed that evening, but I clearly remember the Judge saying, "Get the book published." Well, after the passing of some years and the completion of the first Judge Mathis book, now comes a new series of books in which the legal system is presented to an audience in a more dynamic, colorful format. One day this book will become an animated series.

This book is for today's readers and tomorrow's leaders.

It is our duty to continue to motivate and inspire children to read and lead so that they become educated, economically empowered, and ultimately, entrepreneurs.

Doc Cee and Miss Livy with Judge Greg Mathis “The Dream Lemonade Case – Part I”

Book Summary

What is the judicial system and why is it important? What is a court room? What is the purpose of a court judge? Have you ever met a court judge?

In this exciting and enlightening UReadULead selection, Doc Cee and Miss Livy begin learning about what happens in civil court cases from an expert and their mentor, Judge Greg Mathis. This story is the first in which Doc Cee and Miss Livy find themselves sitting in a courtroom and carefully observing a court case that must be decided by Judge Greg Mathis.

As you read the story, you pretend to be the judge, and you decide, based on the facts, the person whom you believe should win this court case. Will you decide in favor of the plaintiff or the defendant? Be sure to read the second book of this court case story to find out if you are a legal expert, and your decision is the same as Judge Greg Mathis.

Character Trait(s)

Respectful and Responsible

In life, you will have different viewpoints from other people and you will have disagreements with others. Being respectful and responsible are two character traits that can allow you to settle differences and disagreements without being confrontational.

You are respectful when you treat others nicely and fair. You are responsible when you do the things you are expected to do. This can be seen in the story. Everyone in the courtroom obeys the courtroom rules and displays good manners at all times. Even the persons in the story who are in disagreement with each other treat each other with respect and dignity.

So, are you respectful and responsible? Do you treat your parents, family members, friends, and others with respect and dignity at all times? You have been taught to be respectful and responsible, and this is what is expected of you, whether at home, at school, or in your community. Show people that you possess these two traits and you will find yourself being able to communicate and solve differences and disagreements that you have with others more easily.

On a hot August day at about one o'clock,
In the courtroom the people did sit.
The Honorable Judge Greg Mathis did enter:
Doc Cee quietly said, "He's legit."

“All rise in the court!” the bailiff did yell.
And the people did stand right away.

“The Honorable Judge Mathis of the state of Michigan,
Will rule on this court case today.”
